SUPPORT WORKERS

Promoting Independence

Ally Mentor Support Services offers support services to clients in our centre, in the home and in the community.

Our support workers offer a mentorship style of support which is designed to promote independence, teach valuable life skills and create a sense of self-empowerment to the people we support.

Whether your goal is to learn new skills, participate more in the community, go on social outings or just enjoy some company, our support team can support you to achieve this.

GROUPS/PROGRAMS

Creating Connections

We offer a range of groups and programs for people aged 3 - 65 years within the Ally centre as well as within the community, which are designed to increase social engagement opportunities, build valuable social skills, encourage independence, develop fine motor skills and teach life skills.

Our dedicated and qualified staff come with a range of skills, as well as lived experience of disability and are committed to making a difference in the lives of those they support.
